

Just been affixed. And he also carried a packet of mail.

As the Goff drew abreast of the Memphis Lindbergh was standing on the bridge talking with the captain of the cruiser. On the boat deck of the Memphis Lindbergh's plane. Two navy seaplanes, mounted on catapults, stood guard on either side of the St. Louis.

Aboard the Goff, meanwhile, orders were given to lower the starboard whale boat. Six sailors climbed into the boat. Rhyne and P. B. Hayward, a customs official from Baltimore, followed them, and seated themselves in the stern. Besides Lindbergh's uniform Rhyne carried with him programs of the Washington and New York receptions, which he said would give Lindbergh an idea of what was in store for him; a wrist watch and a check for $1,000 offered by the makers of the watch to the first flyer to make a nonstop flight from New York to Paris, and copies of the New York Times containing all articles written for that paper and Paris Concise Tribune by Col. Lindbergh.

Lined with Officers.

The starboard side of the Memphis was lined with officers, sailors and newspaper men who began exchanging greetings.

As soon as the crew of the Goff opened Col. Lindbergh they gave him three cheers. Lindbergh, from the bridge of the cruiser, responded by waving the hand. It appeared to have changed but little since the morning of his take-off from Roosevelt field. Apparently, his contact with kings and with princes in Europe had not changed him. He was still the same smiling, boyish "Slim," and he looked for all the world like a typical American boy to whom the mayor of some city had turned over his office for the day.

Destroyer Drops Astern.

As soon as the whale boat left the side of the Memphis got under way again. The Goff meantime fell astern of the cruiser, acting as the fifth destroyer in the convoy.

Just before the ships came in sight of Cape Henry four airplanes sent from the naval operating base appeared to the starboard, approaching rapidly. They made directly for the Memphis, passing but a few feet over her masts, circled and passed again. Then Lindbergh got his first sight of the American shore since he left on his flight to Paris. What he saw was two lighthouses, which appeared at first as two tiny dots, on far off Cape Henry. The first of these lighthouses, known to residents hereabouts as "the old lighthouse," was the first built in the United States.

Takes Pilot Aboard.

As the Memphis drew near the capes two pilot boats approached her, one carrying a Maryland pilot and the other a Virginia pilot, but the cruiser took only the Maryland pilot aboard and headed directly up the Chesapeake. A few minutes later, an airplane, bearing the inscription "Jacksonville," approached the Memphis and began circling about it. Then came a flight of 15 army and marine corps planes from Langley field and another flight of planes from the naval operating base. The army and marine flyers took positions to the right of the channel and the navy flyers to the left.

Then came the big blimps, one at a time. The crews of destroyers had been on the lookout for the Los Angeles and the arrival of the first blimp was greeted with cheers. But as the

She will represent the pupils in presenting a wreath to Mrs. Lindbergh, mother of the trans-Atlantic flyer, at exercises in Central park next Tuesday.

CAPITAL READY TO SHOW LINDBERGH HOW U. S. FEELS

Plans to Outdo Europe in Enthusiasm.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.) Washington, D. C., June 10.—(Special.)—Washington is ready for "Lindy." With the weather bureau predicting fair and cooler weather and the cruiser Memphis due at the navy yard at 11 o'clock tomorrow, the capital is preparing to accord Col. Charles A. Lindbergh the most enthusiastic welcome he has received since the Spirit of St. Louis dropped into Paris from New York. The first municipal event of Tuesday is scheduled for 1 p. m. and in the morning Col. Lindbergh will visit the Patterson plant of the Wright Aeronautical corporation, where the motor of his plane was built. The fact that Mr. Rhyne found Col. Lindbergh ready to be the dinner guest of the Aeronautical chamber of commerce on Thursday night indicates that New York will have the aviator as its guest for a full five days. Efforts, it was explained, had been made by St. Louis backers of the flight to limit the stay of Col. Lindbergh in New York to three days and then to take him to the Missouri city.

The flyer lands until the President finishes his congratulatory remarks. The President will arrive at the grounds a few moments in advance of the Lindbergh party. The ceremonies are expected to last about twenty minutes, when the President, with Col. Lindbergh and the pilot's mother, will be escorted to a temporary White House at Du Pont circle.

BYRD TO NOTIFY LINDBERGH OF HUBBARD AWARD

Washington, D. C., June 10.—(Special.)—Commander Richard E. Byrd, first to fly across the north pole, has been designated to notify Col. Charles A. Lindbergh of the award to him by the National Geographic society of the Hubbard gold medal.

Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, president of the National Geographic society, extended the invitation to Byrd to notify Lindbergh. The notification will take place at the National Aeronautic association breakfast Monday morning, which will be attended by a small group of America's most famous flyers.

It is estimated that more than 100,000 visitors are in the city. District officials predict that 600,000 cheering citizens will be fighting to see Lindbergh during the two hours of the official reception. Close to 200,000 are expected to attend the ceremonies at the Washington monument and it is estimated that the greatest part of the crowd will be assembled along the streets running from the navy yard to the stand of honor at the monument grounds.

Steel cable barricades are being erected tonight along Pennsylvania avenue from the peace monument to the treasury and these, with the majority of the 856 policemen on the payroll of the district, are expected to hold the crowds in check. However, should the enthusiastic multitude flood over the barricades, 2,000 military troops leading the parade will be utilized in rescuing the young pilot.

Ceremonies to Be Brief.

Four announcers of the staff of the National Broadcasting company, all of them nationally known, will broadcast the Washington reception from the

LINDBERGH WON'T FLY SPIRIT OF ST. LOUIS TO N. Y. RECEPTION

New York, June 10.—(Special.)—Col. Lindbergh has waived his desire to fly the Spirit of St. Louis to this city on Monday and will arrive instead in an army amphibian plane. This information came tonight in the first direct word to New York from the U. S. S. Memphis. It was in a radio message sent by Richard R. Rhyne who is handling the publicity arrangements for the mayor's committee.

Mr. Rhyne boarded the Memphis late this afternoon to get Lindbergh's approval to the city's plans for welcome.

The radio read as follows: "Slim" will arrive New York City in an amphibian at 10 a. m. Monday as planned. Patterson, N. J., Tuesday, set. Chamber of commerce dinner set. Everything fine. "Slim" sent best regards.

The reference to Patterson, it was explained, fits a vacant date in the city program. The first municipal event of Tuesday is scheduled for 1 p. m. and in the morning Col. Lindbergh will visit the Patterson plant of the Wright Aeronautical corporation, where the motor of his plane was built. The fact that Mr. Rhyne found Col. Lindbergh ready to be the dinner guest of the Aeronautical chamber of commerce on Thursday night indicates that New York will have the aviator as its guest for a full five days.

CHICAGO SENDS LINDBERGH 2 TONS OF MAIL BY PLANES

Mayor Asks Decoration of City Today.

Two tons of congratulatory messages from Chicagoans to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh were carried aboard a fleet of air mail planes which left for Washington, D. C., yesterday. The letters will be presented to the aviator today at the reception there in his honor.

Postmaster Arthur C. Loeber had issued a call for the messages, suggesting that it would be appropriate for inhabitants of this city, which for a time was Lindbergh's home town, to use the air mail to welcome him home. The response exceeded all expectations, he said.

Urges Decoration of City.

A proclamation was issued from Mayor Thompson's office calling upon all stores, business houses, and private citizens to decorate the city with flags beginning at noon today. The proclamation urged that the city be decorated in honor of Lindbergh's flight "an achievement in American history."

In a telegram to City Controller Charles C. Fitzmorris, Mayor Thompson requested that factories and locomotives blow their whistles and automobiles sound their horns at noon as a greeting to Col. Lindbergh when he lands from the cruiser Memphis.

Smoke Inspector George E. Nye was given charge of the noise arrangements.

One of the messages sent to the flyer was from Capt. Benjamin B. Lipner, first superintendent of the air mail service. He told Lindbergh that his achievement had advanced aviation in America by twenty-five years.

Trains Named for Plane.

Lindbergh hasn't had a cigar named after him yet but the Pennsylvania railroad announced that it will change the name of two of its fastest trains between St. Louis and New York to commemorate the New York-Paris flight. The St. Louisman (west bound) and the New Yorker (east bound) will be called the "Spirit of St. Louis."

The observation car of the new Spirit of St. Louis will be named the Col. Lindbergh.

The Chicago, Milwaukee, and St. Paul railway also named one of its steel parlor cars the "Lindbergh."

SEEDS UNCLE ACCIDENTALLY.

Frank Potratz, 23, was shot in the abdomen last night when a pistol in the hands of his nephew, Lohor Oster, of 2340 North Ashland avenue, was accidentally discharged. Oster was not held.

BYRD'S PLANE READY; ROUND TRIP HINGES ON EUROPEANS' SUCCESS

New York, June 10.—(Special.)—Commander Richard E. Byrd and his crew today were putting their giant Fokker America, the third New York-to-Paris plane, into final shape.

Regardless of the scores of conflicting rumors concerning Byrd's preparations, most of them purporting to show that the Paris flight plan has been jettisoned, it was learned authoritatively today that the America will hop off for Paris on the first favorable opportunity after the submission of the excitement attendant upon Col. Lindbergh's arrival.

The America, as it stood today, was practically inflexible for an immediate start. Earlier this week she ascended from Roosevelt field with her Paris load of 14,100 pounds with ease. Speculation that the America would attempt a round trip from New York to Paris was definitely spiced. Only one factor may change the present plans. If either a German or Frenchman, as press dispatches intimate, should attempt and complete a return trip, then, it was said, the America, once it reached Paris, would be pointed back again to New York.

Charge Army Is Trying to Exploit Lindbergh

Washington, D. C., June 10.—(Special.)—Officers of the United States Air Force association today dispatched a radiogram to Col. Lindbergh, urging him to refuse to don his army uniform for the Washington reception. The association charges that the army is trying to exploit Lindbergh for its own purposes.

"Army officials endeavoring to get you in uniform for the exploitation of the army," the message read. "Your success was made as a civilian. Do not fall for their stuff."

Scaplers Offer Tickets for N. Y. Lindy Reception

New York, June 10.—(Special.)—Ticket speculators were reported in city hall to be offering, at prices anywhere from $15 to $250 each, "prospective" tickets to the grandstand in City Hall Plaza from which about 2,500 persons will view the city's reception to Col. Lindbergh.

BERLIN, June 10.—D. Chamberlain and American trans-Atlantic flyers were guests at a reception after a well filled program.

The dinner dance at the German club at the Hotel de Ville was a magnet for all German flyers who could reach Berlin after all the town week. YANKS IN BERLIN GIVE FLYERS 'OLD HOME WEEK' FETE

City Honors Chamberlin and Levine.

BERLIN, June 10.—(AP)—Clarence Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine, American transatlantic flyers, tonight were guests at a real American party, after a well filled day of honors and ceremonies.

The dinner dance given by the American club at the Hotel Adlon proved a magnet for all the Americans in Germany and central Europe who could reach Berlin in time and the affair had all the flavor of a "Home week." Foreign Minister Stresemann, himself, as a special mark of interest in the American celebration, insisted on attending right up to the time for the departure of his train for Geneva where he will attend Monday's convocation of the council of the league of nations.

Long before the hour fixed for the appearance of the American flyers and Ambassador Jacob G. Schurman, the hotel lobbies were thronged with Americans eager to pay tribute to their compatriots. There were many distinguished German guests also.

Inspect Three Aviation Factories. Despite their busy evening function and a no less imposing reception and luncheon at the Berlin Rathaus, the flyers found time during the day to inspect three of the most important aviation factories in Germany, visiting the Rohrbach and Siemens-Halske plants in the forenoon and the Albatros works in the afternoon.

The latter plant particularly interested Chamberlin as it was there that Germany's war planes were constructed.

Given Honorary Plaques. Through streets lined with cheering crowds and in company with Ambassador Schurman, the flyers mounted the great stair case at the Rathaus where they were greeted by Lord Mayor Boettis, who was surrounded by uniformed ushers bearing wands surmounted by the coat of arms of the Berlin municipality.

After signing the city's "golden book," the aviators were escorted into the banquet hall to the strains of the "Star Spangled Banner," rendered by Berlin's famous Symphony orchestra.

Announcing at the end of the luncheon that the thoroughfare leading to Tempelhof airport henceforth would be known as Columbusstrasse, the lord mayor then bestowed upon the flyers and Ambassador Schurman the city's honorary plaques, which are reserved for distinguished guests.

There were 800 guests at tonight's dinner dance at the American club. A model of the transatlantic plane Columbia occupied a post of honor, being hung immediately over the table at which sat the American flyers.

Flyers Thank Hosts. Chamberlin and Levine were given the floor at tonight's banquet, after Foreign Minister Stresemann and Ambassador Schurman had addressed the guests. The American flyers were wildly cheered. Both of them thanked the diners for their reception and the good will shown them since they "dropped in" on Germany.

They then were forced to yield to an

Impetuous rush of autograph collectors, who couldn't be kept away from their tables. The band then struck up "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean," which brought the diners to their feet when the stanza, "How bravely she bore her brave crew," was reached.

To Meet Wives in Prague. The plans of Chamberlin and Levine underwent several modifications today. First, they will not fly to Bremen to meet their wives, as they had considered doing; instead the women will join their husbands at Prague, the capital of Czechoslovakia.

Mrs. Chamberlin and Mrs. Levine will depart from the liner Berlin at Bremen June 11, where they will be the guests of the Lufthansa Air Lines at a "festival breakfast." They will fly to Berlin, leaving Bremen at 11 o'clock and arriving at the Tempelhof air field at 2 p. m. They will have luncheon in the air field restaurant and leave in a plane for Prague at 4 p. m., arriving in the evening to join their famous husbands.

Chamberlin and Levine will be in Vienna from June 12 to 15, going to Prague on the 16th. They accepted an invitation from the Polish government today to visit Warsaw, but the date is yet to be fixed. They would also like to include Budapest, Hungary, in their itinerary but are not sure whether they will do so. They are also considering a flight to Rome.

Special Tribune Reception. [Chicago Tribune Press Service.] BERLIN, June 10.—Through a special edition of the Berlin edition of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE issued for the reception by the American colony tonight, Clarence Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine, the American flyers, expressed their thanks for the reception in a signed statement, which said in part:

"With so many tributes paid to us at every turn and so many honors showered upon us, it is difficult to say anything that would truly be expressive of our feelings. We would like to say it is great to be in Berlin—and it is great to have achieved what we started out to do—fly here. We both

"L" AND SURFACE MEN TO PARLEY WITH COMPANIES

Will Discuss Pay Demand for Two Weeks.

Chicago street car and elevated riders were assured yesterday that if the employees walk out this summer to enforce their wage increase and other demands, no strike will be called for at least another two weeks.

For at least another week union leaders representing the Surface Lines' employees and those of the elevated roads, will prepare their arguments to present to the companies' officials when meeting finally for about 12,000 men.

William Quinlan is president of the Surface Lines employees' union. At the referendum taken in Carmen's hall on Thursday 11,961 votes were cast in favor of suspending work if the union's demands were refused, while only 183 negative votes were cast.

It is understood that Mr. Quinlan with their data, will make no attempt to resume negotiations with President Henry A. Blair and his aids until the elevated roads' men have an opportunity to vote a strike authority to their officials. The two groups, though negotiating separately, commonly act in concert when danger of a strike impends.

The elevated strike vote may be taken some day next week, perhaps on Thursday, it was reported. Plans for taking that vote are expected to be completed at a meeting at Carmen's hall tonight.

Held Preliminary Parley. A brief parley was held yesterday between Vice President Bernard J. Fallon of the Chicago Rapid Transit company, and President Frank E. Lawrence of the "L" men's committee, and another conference was called for next Wednesday. Various changes in working conditions sought by the men were discussed, but the wage question was not touched upon, it was reported later.

Both surface and elevated lines' employees are asking a wage increase, and the surface lines' men, in addition, demand that the company provide them each with a $1,000 insurance policy similar to policies granted the elevated men last year. The surface and elevated companies have not only so far refused to consider granting more money, but demand that the men accept a wage cut.

Street car men now get a maximum of 75 cents per hour and are asking an increase to 80 cents, while elevated men, now getting 77 cents, also want an increase of 15 cents per hour. Surface lines men, it is reported, are determined not to compromise on less than a 5 cents per hour boost. This would raise their scale to 82 cents, restoring a 10 cent cut made by the company in 1922, when fares were reduced from 8 cents to 7 cents.

COOLIDGE TO DRIVE 64- MILES DAILY TO HOLD HIS OFFICE HOURS

Washington, D. C., June 10.—[Special.]—Discussing his plans for the summer White House in the Black Hills, President Coolidge let it be known today that he would drive to his offices in Rapid City nearly every day and see his visitors there. The executive offices will be 12 miles from the state game lodge, where the President and Mrs. Coolidge will live while in South Dakota.

President Coolidge expects to see the people of the northwest who come his way during his vacation. He will also confer with farmers and farm leaders to learn at first hand the farm relief problem.

President of the union, is expected to arrive from Detroit next week and take an active part in the negotiations. Union officials say the present traction muddle enters in no way into the wage negotiations. But company officials point to the unsettled traction situation as a compelling argument against granting more money to their employees at this time. The surface lines are operating on a temporary franchise and in addition the west and north divisions of the system are under a federal receivership, it is pointed out.

PILOT IS PROUD OF HIS ASSIGNMENT TO GUIDE LINDBERGH

Piney Point, Md., June 10.—(AP)—Capt. "Bill" Luckett, Potomac river pilot for 47 years, will get a bigger "kick" out of guiding Col. Lindbergh's transport Memphis up the winding river tomorrow than he did from showing the way to presidents and potentates.

Waiting here tonight to go aboard the Memphis, Luckett recalled that he had piloted the presidential yacht, Mayflower, on its maiden trip to Washington in October, 1902, and directed its path on every Potomac trip except one since.

"I remember King Albert of Belgium, the Japanese prince, Lord Balfour of England, and Viviani of France," said the pilot, "but this Memphis trip is going to be the most memorable of my experience, because it makes me proud to be an American, to be associated even indirectly with that boy, Lindbergh. His mother is a real American woman, just as he is a real American boy. It is not so much what he did as the way he made a clean, complete job of what he set out to do."

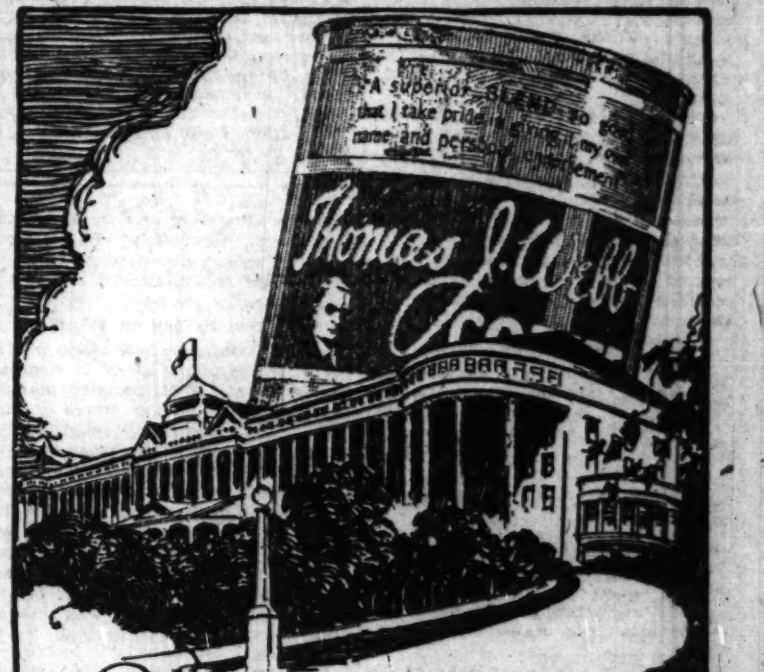

BLAST FURNACE BLAZE BAFFLES FIRE FIGHTERS

Firemen who attempted to extinguish a fire yesterday afternoon in the $4,000,000 blast furnace, known as No. 9, in the yards of the Illinois Steel company at 54th East 18th street, were forced back by outflowing gas. Hope for saving the lining of the furnace was abandoned.

Late last night 700 tons of coke in the furnace still were burning. The police and firemen were told by company officials that the gas pockets, which usually burn beneath the coke, had in some manner climbed above the solid fuel and become unmanageable.

Harry Strain, superintendent of the furnace, said the occurrence was unique in the history of blast furnaces. Damage estimated at possibly $1,000,000 might be caused, it was said, if the huge bell of the blast furnace, which is 175 feet high, should fall. Streams of water were kept playing on the fire through the night.

SEIZED ON BAD CHECK CHARGE. Solomon Klein, 50, of 1215 South Avenue, was arrested by Supts. Lutz, Kell, and Fikes of the detective bureau yesterday on a charge of passing a bad check. Klein was released on probation several weeks ago for the same offense.

WARNS OF BOOST OF $25,281,800 IN CHICAGO TAXES

Civic Federation Asks Defeat of Bills.

BY PARKE BROWN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] Springfield, Ill., June 10.—[Special.]—Totaling up the effects of numerous bills pending before the general assembly, the Civic Federation of Chicago issued a warning today that the property owners of Illinois are facing an avalanche of higher taxes.

"Not since the session of 1919 and 1921," read a statement distributed to the legislators by Douglas Southernland, secretary of the federation, "has so serious a legislative situation confronted tax payers."

"An avalanche of higher taxes soon will hit citizens of Illinois unless the general assembly quickly checks the rapid movement toward enactment of pending tax rate increase, bond increase and pension increase. Chicago tax payers would be hardest hit, perhaps, but the whole state is affected."

Chicago Increase $25,000,000. Although he could not obtain the statistics necessary for a similar study in connection with downstate communities, Secretary Southernland analyzed the effect of the tax raises threatened in Chicago if the pending bills are passed. He computed that the possible tax rate increase would be $1.34 a $100. On the basis of present values this would mean an increase in Chicago taxes of $25,281,800 while if forecast increases in valuations come about, there will be still another $3,000,000.

Southernland's first attack was on Mayor Thompson's plan, presented in eighty-seven bills, passed by the senate and now before the house, to increase Chicago's bonding power by raising the assessed valuation of property to its full value. He again pointed out that the issuance of bonds under the enlarged powers sought would increase taxes.

Shows Bonding Power.

Here he inserted a table showing the present and the proposed bonding power of Chicago, of Cook county, the forest preserve, the sanitary district, the South Park board and the school board. For example, he showed the city now has the right to issue $84,195,872 worth of bonds and that a 70 cent tax rate would be necessary to take care of the principal and interest on that amount. If this bonding power were doubled, and the bonds were issued, the tax rate for this purpose also would have to be doubled. In other words this tax would become $1.40.

U. S. LOSES $1,500,000 TAX ON ESTATE OF MRS. RUSSELL SAGE

New York, June 10.—[AP.]—The government today lost $1,500,000 in income taxes on the estate of Mrs. Margaret Olivia Sage, widow of Russell Sage, and thirty-five charitable, religious, and educational institutions profited to that extent under a decision rendered today by the United States Circuit court of appeals.

The decision affirms the prior decision of Judge Augustus N. Hand in the matter of the income tax on the estate and orders that the $1,500,000 be returned to the estate for distribution among the institutions.

Mrs. Sage died Nov. 14, 1918, leaving an estate valued at $48,389,045, virtually practically all of which was bequeathed to institutions. As her estate was not settled at once by the executor, due to the settlement of certain indebtedness amounting to $2,000,000, the federal government levied an income tax against the executors.

The executors paid the tax, but under protest, and brought suit to recover on the ground that the beneficiaries of Mrs. Sage's will were institutions of the nontaxable class.

passenger train yesterday as she walked in front of it at the Nagle avenue crossing. When witnesses picked up her body she was dead. According to several who saw the accident, the woman was wandering aimlessly and stared ahead of her as she walked across the tracks, apparently not noticing the approaching train. The woman was the mother of six children and wife of John Dendor, a mechanic. Irving Park police, who investigated the accident, removed the woman's body to the undertaking rooms at 4559 Milwaukee avenue, where an inquest will be held today. Joseph Sage, engineer of the train, will be called.

GENERAL MURDER TRIAL. Dionicio Sanchez, said to have been a general in a faction in the Mexican revolution, was ordered removed to Poria to stand trial on a charge of mail robbery by Federal Judge George A. Carpenter yesterday. Sanchez is now serving time at Joliet penitentiary for burglary.

Welcome—Lindbergh!

Today all America welcomes Captain Charles A. Lindbergh.

His flight from New York to Paris will stand through all time as the greatest one-man feat in the history of aviation.

He led the way. He proved it could be done. His are the pioneer's laurels.

We, the Vacuum Oil Company, are proud indeed that Captain Lindbergh placed his entire lubricating problem in our hands.

Gargoyle Mobiloil "B" lubricated the single Wright engine of his Ryan plane—from San Diego to New York and then from New York to Paris. Think of it! Over 6,000 miles of flying.

The record of "First" in the history of Mobiloil has long been unequalled in lubricating records. It includes:

First to the North Pole—Mobiloil lubricated Commander Byrd's engines when he flew to the North Pole.

First across the U. S. A. in 24 hours—Mobiloil lubricated Lieutenant Maughan's plane in his famous Dawn-to-Dusk Flight from coast to coast.

First around the World—Mobiloil lubricated the engines of the U. S. Army Round-the-World Fliers when they circumnavigated the globe in 1924.

First across the Sahara Desert—Mobiloil was used in the Citroen trip across the Sahara when motor vehicles triumphed over the treacherous sands and blazing heat of equatorial Africa.

In every one of these events regular "stock" Mobiloil was used—the same Mobiloil which you can buy from Mobiloil dealers on every highway.

When you follow the Mobiloil Chart you use the only oil which is approved by 182 manufacturers of automobiles and motor-trucks.

You depend on the oil which is used by more automobile engineers than any three other oils combined. You secure the engineering margin of safety so necessary to economical operation and low repair bills.

Don't say merely, "Give me a quart of oil." Ask your dealer for Mobiloil and specify the grade your car requires.

DIAMOND BROKER MUST FACE TRIAL FOR BANK HOLDUP

Loses Fight to Escape
Chenoca Charges.

David Blumenfeld, diamond broker and suspected bootlegger of 1053 Belmont avenue, lost a fight for his liberty in habeas corpus proceedings before Circuit Judge Harry Fisher yesterday and last night was transferred to the McLean county jail to await trial on a charge of participating in the $184,000 bank robbery in Chenoca, Ill., on Jan. 23, 1925.

Two witnesses pointed out Blumenfeld as the third man of the trio who, posing as bank examiners, gained entrance to the bank's interior and then held up officials and employees.

Pointed Out in Court.

Miss Marie Teitz, a nurse, of 1410 West Monroe street, who was employed in the bank at the time of the holdup, pointed him out in the courtroom as did Rev. H. W. Owen, pastor of the Chenoca Presbyterian church, who transacted business at the bank on the afternoon of the robbery.

Harry Funk, one of the robbers, is now serving a term of 10 years to life for the crime. William Evans is awaiting trial in the McLean county jail in the same case. He was arrested last month when, dressed as a priest, he attempted to liberate Funk from jail.

Arrested for "Double Cross."

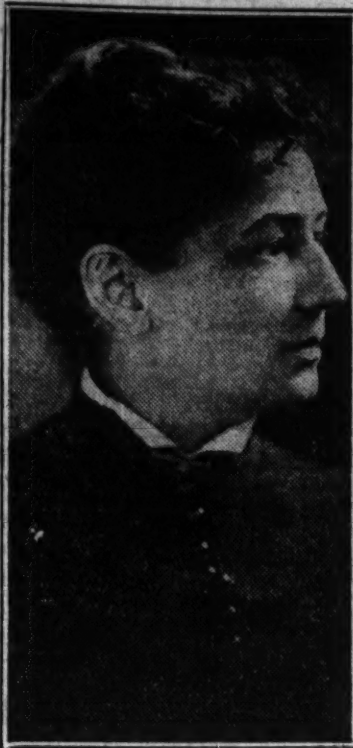

It was after Evans' arrest that police received information that Blumenfeld was supposed to be the third pseudo bank examiner. The informant said he was causing Blumenfeld's arrest for "double crossing" his companions in dividing the loot.

"I'm glad to go down and get it over," Blumenfeld said on leaving the county building in custody of deputy sheriffs. "I would have gone down without this two weeks' court fight if the bond wasn't so high. One hundred thousand is a lot to schedule for bail."

HILLIARD WILL CUTS OFF WIFE, BEQUEATHS $10,000 TO HIS FRIEND

New York, June 10.—(AP)—Robert Cochran Hilliard, noted actor who died this week, cut off his third wife with a penny. His wife was the former S. Olga Everard, daughter of a wealthy New York brewer.

The will, executed April 14, expressed the actor's sorrow at leaving a small estate and explained that it had been depleted by the expense of medical treatment which had incapacitated him from earning any income from his profession over a protracted period.

Mrs. Hilliard, who was not mentioned in the will, lives in New York. Mrs. Hilliard's son, Lieut. Commander Robert E. Hilliard, U. S. N., wife bequeathed an oil painting of his grandfather, other paintings and apparel and the royalties from his father's book, "Memories of Fifty Years."

In making a bequest to Frank Joe Godol, a friend now living in Europe, the will explains that the actor wished to "record and reiterate my gratitude to him for the $10,000 he generously and without solicitation sent me during the last year and which he emphatically wrote was a gift and not a loan."

If the net proceeds of the sale and residuary estate after complying with the terms of the will bequeathing personal effects to friends and relatives exceed the $10,000 bequest to Godol, the remainder will go to Commander Hilliard.

450,000 TROOPS IN THREE ARMIES DRIVE ON PEKING

Chang's Peace Plan Fails to Halt Nationalists.

BY ROBERT PICKENS.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, FIRST NATIONALIST ARMY, Hanchow, June 9.—Despite reports from Peking alleging Marshal Chang Tso-lin, the Manchurian war lord, has compromised with the various Nationalist generals, the fact stands that the Nationalists and their ally, Yen Hsi-shan, tapan of Shan province, are gradually closing in on Marshal Chang. Their combined armies, of approximately 450,000 men, make the eventual capture of the Mukden war lord from Peking a practical certainty.

While there is considerable talk here regarding efforts by Marshal Chang to effect a last-minute compromise in order to preserve the remnants of his position and fortune, the fact also stands that Marshal Feng Yu-hsiang, the Christian general, Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, the Cantonese generalissimo, and Yen Hsi-shan, are cooperating in the war against the Manchurian. Gen. Chang has 300,000 men, Marshal Feng has 50,000, and Yen has 100,000.

Expect Chang to Abdicate.
The officers here are confident Marshal Chang can be pushed back into Manchuria, but they really believe the war lord will abdicate, permitting the younger elements in Manchuria to come to power.

Reports drifting through the lines here from Shantung say general demoralization and panic prevails throughout that province. Chang Chung-chang, the tapan, is creating a reign of terror in Tsinanfu, the capital of Shantung, with wholesale beheadings of bankers and merchants in an effort to prevent a slump in the paper currency.

Lincheng, the famous bandit city of Shantung, was captured by the Nationalists today.

Chiang Heads Barefoot Army.
Gen. Chiang Kai-shek's army here is a disreputable, barefoot aggregation, poorly armed and equipped. They apparently expect to obtain fresh supplies, arms and munitions from their better equipped opponents. The Nationalists, however, are a determined lot of men. They conduct a sort of religious service every morning, recite Dr. Sun Yat-sen's principles and bow before Dr. Sun's picture. The Nationalists are rapidly converting the late statesman into a saint.

Chang Sees Agreement Necessary.
LONDON, June 10.—(AP)—Marshal Chang Tso-lin, Manchurian war lord, is quoted by the Peking correspondent of the Daily Express as saying in an interview that there must be an agreement between the north and the south "for the sake of peace in China, which must come soon." He was not completely convinced, however, respecting the attitude of the southerners.

"I will never leave Peking alive while there is a communist anywhere in control of affairs in China," Chang said. "I have received many tempting advances from southern leaders, including Chiang Kai-shek, generalissimo of the Nationalist, or moderate, Nationalists."

"I believe Chiang Kai-shek is opposed to bolshevism, but I am not completely convinced. To prove his sincerity he must get rid of those Russians around him. Even then there are difficulties, because one of Chang's terms of settlement is that I disown Gen. Chang Chung-chang (former governor of Shantung), and this I will never do."

"I am prepared to embrace the principles of Sun Yat-sen (the late

WIFE DIVORCES SCHOLL, SLAYER OF 2 CHILDREN

Walter A. Scholl, on trial in Valparaiso, Ind., for the murder of his two young children, yesterday was divorced by Mrs. Margaret Gibbon Scholl, his second wife, whose coolness toward him, he said shortly after his arrest, drove him to distraction. Superior Judge Charles A. Williams issued the decree.

The state of Indiana is seeking a death penalty for Scholl who is alleged to have placed etherized towels over the heads of Donald, 4 years old, and Vivian, 4, in a house rented for the purpose in Gary.

Three physicians testified at Scholl's trial Wednesday that his love for the woman was so intense it was a mania. Letters found after the killing indicated that he threatened to take the lives of his children, born by a former wife, unless his second wife returned to him. Mrs. Scholl has been quoted as saying that she plans to marry a Chicago lawyer.

Her testimony at the divorce hearing told of being married in June of 1923 and separated Feb. 15, 1927. She charged extreme and repeated cruelty and testified that on Feb. 13, her husband dragged her across a room by the hair.

Formal signing of the decree awaits the typing of a transcript of the evidence.

SCIENCE TAKES OUT THE "GUESS"

ONE little size stick, and the privilege of making a LARGE NUMBER OF GUESSES is the only equipment furnished the average shoe clerk. If his guess is wrong by the slightest fraction of an inch, you have to go through the torture of "breaking in" a new pair of shoes.

Is it any wonder that frequently your shoes are too long or too short, too wide or too narrow, or the left is all right and the right is all wrong?

When you stand up in this new Resco Twin-Foot Fitting Machine it automatically and accurately measures the length and width of BOTH feet at the same time.

The delicate mechanism is scientifically adjusted to measure the foot expansion and register the length and width of the shoe required to properly fit both stocking feet when the "standing weight" is placed on the sensitive springs.

Adopted by the U. S. Government and used exclusively in all Regal Stores.

Yankee Civilization Is Now Depicted in Light of Economics

By Fanny Butcher.
"The Rise of American Civilization," by Oswald Garrison Villard and Mary R. Beard. (Macmillan).

In an age in which the science of economics has taken the vast strides that it has in our own time, when it has become a science of life, working hypotheses, the science of economics as well as a retro-spective synthesis of the past, it is inevitable that a really good history of the United States should be written from the point of view of economics. There is no more alluring subject for any historian than the United States, no matter how he goes about it, for it is a story told in shorthand.

Developments have been swift and vivid. There has been nothing gentle in the growth of our country; it has been all a sudden, violent growth and change. To students of human life, the presence of one of the great world powers three hundred years after it was from the point of view of its present civilization, unknown, is indeed the miracle of the era.

The Beards are economists of the first order. They have, besides their technical knowledge, a sense of humor which is rare in very serious scholars—and they write with a sort of combination of dignity, impressiveness and humanness which makes some sixteen hundred pages of the two volumes of "The Rise of American Civilization" not only easy to read but provocative of thought as well as of pleasure.

We have had history from every angle. We have gone through, not too lately, a spasm of rejudging history. Some of the groupings have been made to prove a point—like the ardent English speaking friends of the United States who tried to prove that George III., a German, instigated the American revolution and that his country hated it—and some are the skilled work of investigating scientists who have done quite as much in the field of human investigation as has been done in the field of medical and mechanical science, but not so spectacularly.

History can no longer be a record of battles and political parties and discoveries alone. Modern thought realizes that economics and the two volumes of human relationships have made history, often to the surprise of the leaders who had, even with the best of their own times' thought, expected results to be otherwise.

It is from the point of view of economics, therefore, and with the benefit of the latest discoveries in that thrilling field that the Beards have written their history of American civilization. Most of the histories which have been written heretofore have been of the American "people," or of the people of the country under the stars and stripes. You remember Green's famous "History of the English People," not of England. But it has remained for two American economists to write the first history of our civilization.

And the title of their work exactly and perfectly describes it. It is our civilization, our history, a word which is extremely useful despite its bad odor during the late war, which fills the pages of these two volumes. I have never read a clearer statement of the varying reasons for the settlement of the colonies than appears in this book. Each group is so carefully differentiated and its aims so skillfully portrayed, and the relations about a possible union of the colonies are described by you haven't a word of the feeling that you are usually left with about why they didn't investigate as an impassioned whole for their freedom.

They very decidedly did not, as the Beards say, despite many historians' eagerness to have us believe that they did. With what Beards call "dry light" the authors have investigated all of the popular traditions about our history and put down the cold facts they have found.

When I said that the authors have a sense of humor, I did not mean for a moment to infer that "The Rise of American Civilization" is at all a funny book. There is no sentence which contains anything that you would laugh at. But there is underlying the whole book a genial tolerance, an ironic amusement, like that of the Puritans of England show any invincible repugnance to driving white men and women into perpetual servitude. Cromwell, for instance, the first well adapted to that career, for he sold as slaves in the Barbados all the garrison that was not killed in the Drogheda massacre, and his agents made a business of compelling Ireland for boys and girls to be auctioned to English planters in the West Indies.

"The Rise of American Civilization" is an important and a provocative book. It is scholarly without being at any moment dull, and dignified without being haughty. It is frank about our shortcomings as well as about our accomplishments.

"The Work of Doughty James Beards," (William Heitman). An echo of Over Your Home is a volume of photographs of the houses designed by Dwight James Baum. Any one who owns his or her own home would love to have this book. Baum would like best to have Mr. Baum design for him. He does all kinds, American colonial, Dutch colonial, formal Georgian, English, and Italian. This impressive volume includes not only pictures, but plans for houses and grounds and elevations of some of the most beautiful details of doorways and mantels, garden gates and other delights.

"The Geography of Illinois," by Douglas C. Ridgely. (University of Chicago Press.) If there is anything that you would like to know about the physical aspect of our state you will find it in this geography of Illinois. It is the first of a series of volumes "to provide an authoritative geographical study of a state or limited region, presenting in compact form the wide range of physical influences which make up the geographic environment in which men live. And further, attempting to show the ways in which human life in the region is shaped by these physical influences."

"The Wreck of the Redwing," by Beatrice Grimshaw. (Holt.) Beatrice Grimshaw lives in Papua and so she knows what she is writing about when she tells of the life on a small island in the south sea which, though normally a nice quiet decent spot, became the center of terrible intrigue because there were wrecked upon it an assortment of white people.

"The Bird of Fire," by Marie Moravcsik. (Crowell.) "The Bird of Fire" is a vivid story of the Russian revolution. It is a remarkable book, especially because its author has written it in English, after having written previously in Russian only, and previous to that in her native Polish.

"A book that Walt Whitman would have rejoiced in."

Beg Your Pardon
An extract from an informative letter from Ethel M. Colson Braxton, formerly literary editor of the Chicago Herald.

"My Dear Miss Butcher: I am sure you were not responsible for the statement in this Tribune in a report of the woman's world's fair to the effect that 'Miss Butcher' was the first woman literary editor of a large metropolitan daily."

"But because you may not have noticed the error I thought you might like to have your attention called to it, especially as you may never have heard of one early woman literary editor of Chicago at all."

"Mrs. Margaret Abbott, mother of Mrs. Finley Peter Dunne, was literary editor of the old Chicago Herald when I was a very young child, and you must have been a very little one, for she was not even in Chicago. She had been literary editor for some time then, though I don't know how long."

"Jeannette Gilder was literary editor of the Tribune for some time, and was she not? I believe that Mr. Peattie so called and considered her. And did I not antedate you myself?"

"I know that I was literary editor of the second incarnation of the Chicago Herald—not acting literary editor, which I was for some time before—at a time when a visiting English author, seeking the literary editor of this Tribune, was directed to James O'Donnell Bennett."

"The top of the morning to you, as always, and long may you flourish! And again as always, the best of good luck! Yours cordially,

"ETHEL M. COLSON BRAXTON."

Indiana's Literary Field Day Becomes a State Institution

By Wilbur D. Nesbit.
Indiana Literary Field day at Culver Military academy seems to have acquired itself neatly into a definite niche. Now that its purpose is more generally understood, its potentialities are beginning to be appreciated. Gen. Gignilliat, when he inaugurated the field day three years ago, tried to make it plain that its object was to stimulate and encourage the young folks of Indiana along lines that lead to activity in the fields of literature, art and music.

The productions submitted to the judges are amateurish, to be sure, for they are the efforts of young folks who range in age from 14 to 34 years. You do not expect a William Shakespeare or an Alfred Tennyson poem, nor yet an O. Henry short story from a boy or girl not yet out of high school or academy. But the judges all expressed real pleasure in the good quality of the material presented and in the fact that the interest in the event is so universal in Indiana.

Last Saturday at Culver was colorful to the last degree. The rain, which apparently had been put on for a continuous performance, was kindly turned off for the occasion, and the crowd of visitors went around trying to crowd what's his name's "What is so rare as a day in June?" John McCutcheon and George Ade were much in evidence; so was Meredith Nicholson. Nicholson has been enthusiastic about this literary day idea since it was launched.

William Forsythe, the painter, and Lorado Taft, the sculptor, took a keen interest in the program, and added to the dignity of the bank of men with widely known names who formed the court of honor. Kin Hubbard, and Billy Ireland and Gear Williams, and Chick Jackson, and Cora Ingram Judson, and Kate Miller Rabb, and Roy Howard, and a whole host of other writers and artists were on hand, adding to the éclat of the occasion.

The awarding of the prizes—which was in cash money, which, next to the perishing laurel wreath of fame, is the most joyous sight to an author or a composer or an artist—was brilliant, stately and something to be remembered. Those times when the judges of the boys in their best Sunday suits and the girls in their finest party dresses, were each escorted with full military pomp and panoply up the steps of the auditorium of grave and revered seigniors and then and there handed a long envelope which contained the visible and usable symbol of success. A fanfare of trumpets, a ruffled drum and a glory took its place in the young heart!

It was the pageant on the lake shore in the evening which gave the crowd its breathless hour of joy, pure and undiluted. They do things right at Culver. Here was a formal garden, with a graceful Greek peristyle, and a monument of Voltaire, under the silver moon and stars which were set in blue black velvet. There were stately old dances by a costumed group, and then Mr. Voltaire came to life and pitted his ideas of what was what in literature, art and music in the good old days against what has been done since his time.

Capt. Mather of the military academy handled all this, and Flo Ziegfeld is missing a bet. Mather put on a series of living poses of the works of the old and new masters which for sheer beauty and apt fidelity were without equal.

This year proved that Indiana Literary day at Culver is now a state institution. A little more than a state one, for it should have its effect all over the midwest. Taft, McCutcheon, Ade, and Nicholson, as well as everybody else, said so. Lorado Taft was so impressed by the day's events that he stated that he was going to create a piece of sculpture which should typify the spirit of Culver.

From the Studio
Three new volumes have come to us with the imprint of the studio—two volumes in a new process of color reproduction and a reproduction of twelve of Whistler's most famous etchings. The etching fac-similes are remarkably fine for an inexpensive book. One of the books printed in the new color process inaugurates a series, "Masters of the Color Print," and beautifully gives us the color of the etchings of Elton Lord, "Famous Hunting Prints—Hunting" is the first of a series of reprints of famous old hunting prints, which have become so popular lately.

Taft, McCutcheon, Ade, and Nicholson, as well as everybody else, said so. Lorado Taft was so impressed by the day's events that he stated that he was going to create a piece of sculpture which should typify the spirit of Culver.

From the Studio
Three new volumes have come to us with the imprint of the studio—two volumes in a new process of color reproduction and a reproduction of twelve of Whistler's most famous etchings. The etching fac-similes are remarkably fine for an inexpensive book. One of the books printed in the new color process inaugurates a series, "Masters of the Color Print," and beautifully gives us the color of the etchings of Elton Lord, "Famous Hunting Prints—Hunting" is the first of a series of reprints of famous old hunting prints, which have become so popular lately.

Prince Brainsfather
The awarding of the prizes—which was in cash money, which, next to the perishing laurel wreath of fame, is the most joyous sight to an author or a composer or an artist—was brilliant, stately and something to be remembered. Those times when the judges of the boys in their best Sunday suits and the girls in their finest party dresses, were each escorted with full military pomp and panoply up the steps of the auditorium of grave and revered seigniors and then and there handed a long envelope which contained the visible and usable symbol of success. A fanfare of trumpets, a ruffled drum and a glory took its place in the young heart!

It was the pageant on the lake shore in the evening which gave the crowd its breathless hour of joy, pure and undiluted. They do things right at Culver. Here was a formal garden, with a graceful Greek peristyle, and a monument of Voltaire, under the silver moon and stars which were set in blue black velvet. There were stately old dances by a costumed group, and then Mr. Voltaire came to life and pitted his ideas of what was what in literature, art and music in the good old days against what has been done since his time.

Capt. Mather of the military academy handled all this, and Flo Ziegfeld is missing a bet. Mather put on a series of living poses of the works of the old and new masters which for sheer beauty and apt fidelity were without equal.

This year proved that Indiana Literary day at Culver is now a state institution. A little more than a state one, for it should have its effect all over the midwest. Taft, McCutcheon, Ade, and Nicholson, as well as everybody else, said so. Lorado Taft was so impressed by the day's events that he stated that he was going to create a piece of sculpture which should typify the spirit of Culver.

TWO MORE DROWN AS COOL BEACHES REMAIN CROWDED

Girl Sinks in River at End of All Night Party.

Two more drownings occurred yesterday as early season bathers continued to throng the beaches despite the breaking of the intense heat wave of the previous two days.

A thirteen year old colored boy, Archie Allen, 509 Prairie avenue, was drowned in the afternoon when he fell into a hole while wading in the lake off 41st street. Allen's cries did not alarm his companions, but when he disappeared they ran away. Half an hour later they notified the Hyde Park police who recovered the body.

The second drowning was that of Caroline Hycz, 20, of 1830 Milwaukee avenue, who went down in the Des Plaines river in the forest preserve near Milwaukee avenue, at 5 o'clock in the morning. Miss Hycz had gone for the swim with five companions to complete a night's party.

Dives Into Water First.

Miss Hycz was the first of the party to dive in the water. Swimming out from shore, she suddenly disappeared. Alarmed after a few minutes when she failed to reappear, Ben Goldstein, 1323 Western avenue, and Albert Brodt, 4300 Sheridan road, plunged in after her but could not locate the body. Highway police were summoned and Albert Sloop, a forest preserve employee recovered the body.

Goldstein and Brodt, and their companions, Fred Boldt, 2313 Armitage avenue, Marie Moscal, 2313 Caroline street, and Florence Travers, 1927 North Wood street, were all held by the highway police pending the result of the inquest today.

Body Is Recovered.

The body of Ray Young of Galesburg, Ill., who was drowned in the lake Thursday afternoon, came to the surface late yesterday about 15 feet from shore at the foot of 51st street. Hyde Park police had dragged the lake throughout the night.

Enola May Conklin, 3, and George Conklin, 3, who were drowned in each other's arms off 48th street on Tuesday, were buried yesterday.

Four boys were saved from drowning yesterday when they were pulled ashore by an aviator who flew over them, dragging a rope to which they clung while he taxied a mile to shore. The boys were in a rowboat which overturned off the shore at Fort Sheridan. A motorist on shore noticed them and telephoned the Naval Training station. Lieut. Fred Priestman immediately climbed into his seaplane and flew out over the boys, dropping the line to them. The boys are Wallace Reid, David McCalla, John Suite, and Harry Roman, all of Highland Park.

JURY SELECTION SLOWS TRIAL OF GENNA GUNMEN

CRIMINAL COURT.

Edward Anderson, 22, crime, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge William V. Brothers.
Clarence Radin, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge Philip L. Sullivan.
Harry Collins, assault with a deadly weapon, sentenced to 1 year in the county jail by Judge Harry B. Miller.

FRIDAY.

George Anderson, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell by Judge Emanuel Miller.
Sam Tricola, murder, sentenced to life imprisonment by Judge John J. Sullivan.
Joseph Pagavara, assault to rob, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Elisham Scobey.

Refusal to believe that a citizen has a right to kill a policeman even though the latter may be making what is termed in law as an illegal arrest caused the excuse from service yesterday of many veniremen called in Judge William J. Lindsay's criminal court where Albert Anselmi and John Scallan are on trial for the murder of Policeman Charles Walsh. As attorneys Thomas D. Nash, Michael Ahern and Patrick H. O'Donnell expounded their theory of the defense to the prospective jurors they found few ready to agree with them.

When court adjourned last night not a single juror had been added to the four selected the previous day. Because of the crowded condition of the criminal court calendars, Judge Lindsay ordered that the task of jury examination proceed today so that the trial may be terminated as soon as possible. Special venirees for additional men were issued last night.

Scallan and Anselmi were members of the Genna gang. This is their third trial for the killing of the two policemen two years ago.

Extend Berlin-Moscow Air Route to Teheran, Persia

BERLIN, June 10.—(AP)—The German Lufthansa (Commercial Airplane Transportation company) announced today extension of the Berlin-Moscow route to Teheran, Persia, through an agreement between the Russian Air Transit company and the Persian National Airplane company, enabling Persian planes to fly as far as Baku on the Caspian sea. Thus passengers will be able to go from Berlin to Teheran by changing planes twice, at Moscow and Baku. The Lufthansa also announced the opening of the Breslau-Berlin-Stockholm route.

TAILOR FOUND SHOT TO DEATH.

D'AUTREMENT SON WAY TO TRIAL FOR OREGON SLAYINGS

Stevensville, O., June 10.—(AP)—

After nearly four years of sitting the law, Ray and Roy D'autre went, 27 year old twins, tonight were on the first leg of a journey back to Oregon, where they face charges of mail robbery and murder.

Arraigned today on the mail robbery charge before a United States commissioner, they were held in bonds of $50,000 each. They will be held in jail at Columbus, O., pending the arrival of federal officers from Oregon.

From a front seat in the little courtroom today Ray D'autre's young wife looked on, her year old son in her arms. Until his arrest she had not known that he was other than the "Elmer Goodwin" she thought him to be.

As he started from the room he lagged behind his guard, pulling at the shackles, and called to her:

"Goodby, Elmer!"

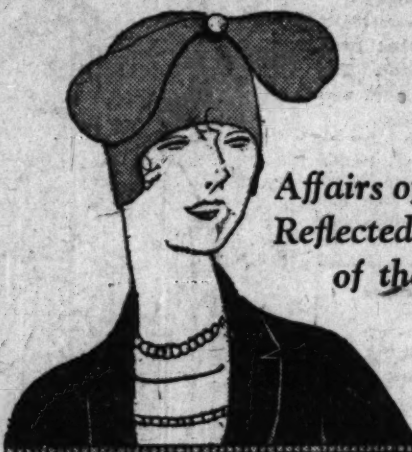

That was their farewell. As she spoke the words she swooned in her seat.

Some time later, with her son and $250 which federal officers took from her husband's pockets, she left Stevensville to go back to the farm home near Hanging Rock, O.

Bank Robbery Suspect Caught After Two Years

A two year search for Antonio Kneisl, 32, of 648 Garfield avenue, wanted for participation in a $3,000 bank robbery at Chesterfield, Mo., in 1924, was ended yesterday when Lieut. T. J. Mangan and his squad from the detective bureau arrested Kneisl at 31st and 22d streets. Kneisl is alleged to have confessed to the robbery. Three other members of the gang which held up the bank are now in the Missouri state prison.
